BRIEFINGS.

—Some snow.

—To-day is about two minutes longer than yesterday.

—The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Brown died this morning.

—A drunken woman, a match peddler by profession, was cared for at the jail last night.

—Rev. T. W. MacLean held services this morning in the chapel of Trinity Episcopal church, in observance of the festival of the Epiphany.

—Folk speak about a man being high up in society, or low down in the world, just as though there was a chance for a man to be high down or low up.

—St. Patrick's Society is to give a dance in Young America hall, on the 24th inst. Anderson's band is to furnish music, and tickets are placed at seventy-five cents.

—Last evening there was a fuller attendance at the Merry Club than at any previous gathering. The hall was full and the enjoyment commenced early and continued late.

—John Ambrose's company have engaged the Opera house for the 28th inst., at which time and place they will give "Uncle Tom's Cabin," an old but very popular play.

—The funeral services of Mrs. J. F. Bemis, who died at Beloit yesterday morning, are to be held in the Congregational church there to-morrow at 2 o'clock. Friends desiring to attend can reach there in time by rail.

—John H. Adams, of Beloit, dealer in harnesses, saddles, etc., is reported as having failed, with liabilities reaching from $5,000 to $7,000. It is easy to see how any one dealing in leather can get strapped—but it's too bad.

—Sheriff Skaven has not made all of his appointments of deputies yet. He has, however, chosen John Drake as Under Sheriff, Mr. Holbrook, of Lima as a deputy, and City Marshal Williams, of Evansville, as another deputy.

—The round trip tickets from Janesville to Chicago over the Chicago & Northwestern road, for the Bernhardt engagement, will be $3.55, good till the 14th. Persons wishing them must call at Mr. Moseley's store on or before Monday noon, the 10th instant. This is a rare chance to go to Chicago on exceedingly cheap fare.

—The fairy opera of "The Magic Shipper," which is to be given at the Opera house, one week from to-night, is creating a great sensation in Chicago, this week. Little Corinne, who takes the part of Cinderella, is but seven years old, and none of the company are over eighteen or twenty. It promises to be a rare treat indeed.

—Last evening there was a happy little gathering at the home of Levi Caniff, on North Second street, to witness the marriage of his son Levi B. Caniff to Miss Mary Mayher. Rev. Olin A. Curtis performed the ceremony, and after the tying of the knot the usual social doings followed, with bountiful expressions of congratulations on the part of the friends present.

—Milton Nobles is to be at the Opera house next Monday night. He will have a house full, for by his previous visits here he has made himself known to the amusement lovers, and has so captivated their fancy, that they need no assurance that there will be a first-class play given in a first-class manner. He is a favorite here, and his name always pulls the people to the Opera house.

—Last evening a young man from the country who had been emboldened by a drink or two, fancied himself an Adonis, and sought to ingratiate himself into the graces of two respectable young ladies, who had occasion to be on the street. He followed them, and by various ways insulted them, until they sought protection from the Marshal, who proceeded to shake that young man up in a manner which will cause him to remember the lesson learned. When last seen he was carrying home a beefsteak, snugly bound over one eye.

—He was one of those who think the goose quill or the pencil stub is mightier than a butcher's cleaver, and so he concluded to carve up his opponent by the power of the press. He brought in the communication to have it printed, and wanted it in big type so that it would have weight. We regret that lack of space makes it impossible for us to give it all, but the death blow is so good that we must make room for it. Here it is—"He is a frowly headed Rumanian monster—he is as splendid a specimen of the genus homo as God ever set down in a Christian community." That settles it. Any man who belongs to the "genus homo" ought not to be allowed to live here. Throw him out.

—The funeral services of Willie Harrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Harrison were held yesterday afternoon at the residence, and were attended by a large number of friends, whose sympathy goes out honestly and earnestly to those who have thus been heavily stricken. Rev. A. Lee Royce, of Christ Episcopal church officiated, and the service was very tender and impressive. Appropriate music was given by Mrs. Conrad, Miss Maggie Hulihen, Miss Jessie Patten, and Messrs. William Bladen and C. N. Vankirk. The remains were enclosed in a most beautifully draped casket of white, and there was a profusion of floral tributes. The remains were taken to Oak Hill cemetery for interment, George Wheelock, Fred Richardson, Paul Colvin, Jo. Bostwick, Fred Drake and Will Skelly serving as pall bearers, and a large number of friends joining in the sad procession.

—As soon as he could catch his second wind, after climbing the stairs, he began telling us that his boy, though though-headed and wall-eyed, and even a little pug-nosed, was a prodigy in mathematics, and his star of destiny was a dazzler. "Well, now, you see, that little shaver has just made a wonderful discovery about 1881. I'll bet you haven't any of you noticed it, but he has, that it don't make any difference how you fix the figures they add up 18 every time, and I thought as how it wouldn't do any harm to make a note on it, for it's awful curious." We had to concede that it was a startling discovery, and was another proof that Mother Shipman's prophecy would doubtless come true, and that the whole world would get such a warning up this year that it would never get over it. But in order to test the little fellow's wonderful skill in figures, we sent to him by his father the problem—if a pound of butter weighs sixteen ounces, how much will it weigh if turned upside down. His genius is evidently still trying to get a focus on that problem, for we haven't heard from him since.

—Mrs. Wheeler Bowen started this afternoon for her home in Yankton.

—S. T. Merrill and C. C. Keeler, of Beloit, members of the Board of Supervisors, were welcome callers at the Gazette office this morning.

—The Beloit Free Press in speaking of the annual meeting of the Veteran Club there, says: "Mrs. R. F. Hayes, of Janesville, formerly of this city, recited an interesting poem in an admirable manner."

—Ex-Sheriff John Comstock has entered the employ of the Harris Manufacturing Company, as collector. It is a responsible position, but one which will be well filled, as all who know Mr. Comstock will testify. His experience, integrity and enterprise make him a valuable man, and the company may well congratulate itself on having secured his services. His brother Fred, who has been serving as turnkey at the jail, will probably take charge of the farm.

THE COUNTY BOARD.

The Rock County Supervisors opened their adjourned annual meeting this afternoon, William Menzies presiding, and all the members present except Supervisor Pease.

Justice Mills, of Evansville, was heard in regard to his claim for additional fees caused by employing a short hand reporter in certain cases. The claim was disallowed by a unanimous vote.

A petition was received and read from Deputy Sheriff Marsh, regarding certain items which the Board had disallowed in his bill. The petition was tabled.

The statement of the Insane Asylum at Madison, showing Rock county to be owing $3,254 for the care of its insane during 1880, was presented.

Supervisor Eldredge introduced a resolution instructing the District Attorney to collect of all parties who were responsible, for the care of insane relatives. The resolution called forth much discussion.

HOW IT DONE?

That is the question asked often than any other by those who attend the entertainments given by Baldwin's Brilliants at the Opera house. Last night there was a light audience, but everybody was thoroughly satisfied with the entertainment given, and some of the mysteries presented put all in a puzzled condition. Prof. Baldwin was tied securely in the cabinet by the committee, the ropes about his wrist being drawn so snugly as to start the blood even. One of the committee seated in the cabinet held onto him, and yet when the doors were closed hands appeared and other strange apparitions, and when the light was restored and the doors thrown open, the committeeman had a butter bowl on his head for a cap, and testified that he had felt hands on his face. It was a queer showing indeed.

A very clever wine trick was done last evening, the committee first examining the pitcher and the glasses, and then being treated to wine, water, ginger ale, and other drinks out of the same pitcher. The glasses being emptied again into the pitcher would come forth in still different combinations, and the trick seemed to defy detection.

The Glee Club gave some excellent songs, and Master Lyman showed his youthful oratorical powers to the utter astonishment of those who heard him for the first time.

To-night Mrs. Baldwin is to give her wonderful showing of clairvoyance. Any persons in the audience can write out questions, names, etc., and fold the papers ever so tightly, she will read them, and some most wonderful exhibitions of mind-reading are promised. The gifts too will be distributed as usual, and to-night a gold watch, of Elgin make, is to be given away, and whether there be many or few, some one who goes to-night will become the owner of an elegant time-keeper.
